

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for gaming that arranges and uses numbers on its game board in a manner consistently with the first several rows of Pascal's

5 Triangle. The gaming method and apparatus includes the use of tokens or chips that bear indicia corresponding to the same numbers of the game board, and the use of personages and their characteristics according to a point system. The chips may be acquired/discarded and traded for personages according to a point system. Furthermore, a subset of the chips may include a bonus

10 indicator on the back which may be traded for bonus cards that are advantageous for play.